

Scott Richter is an award-winning WGA writer, producer, and attorney, and president of Richter Scale Media, Inc., a film, television, and new media production company. A double graduate cum laude of the University of Miami and member of Law Review, Scott has practiced law in Florida and California for over 20 years and written extensively for print and television media.

Scott won the Austin Film Festival's drama teleplay competition for his Grey's Anatomy script, "Reality Bites." His comedy pilot, WHOA!, starring Streamy winner Mark Gantt (The Bannen Way), Academy Award nominee and Golden Globe winner Linda Blair (The Exorcist), Emmy winner Leslie Jordan (Will & Grace, Boston Legal, Sordid Lives), and Grammy winner, Dawnn Lewis (A Different World), has won Best TV Pilot in multiple film festivals.

Other credits include the Emmy award-winning Christopher Lowell Show, for which Scott wrote comedy cold opens and other material for the interior design guru. He has also worked on multiple celebrity autobiographical endeavors, with such notables as Fess Parker (Walt Disney's Davy Crockett) and others. Scott resides in Los Angeles.